

ESS Directors' General Informal Workshop on

"The Role of Statistical Institutes in Digitalisation Strategies of Governments and the EU"

19-20 November 2018

Vienna, Austria

DRAFT AGENDA

Introduction

In the context of an increasing digitalisation of public and private lives governments adopt digitalisation and data strategies to promote e-government activities, make information available to a broader public and reduce reporting burden of citizens.

The envisaged DGs workshop will aim to exchange experience in individual ESS Member States on the role NSIs play in those strategies. Should the NSI help to shape these strategies? Should it play an active role in the management of public/private data? What are possible tensions between the NSI's role of a traditional producer of statistics and being a data hub for the government? What are possible opportunities, what are the risks? These are questions to be addressed throughout the workshop.
